COMMENTS ON STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The Examiner's Reasons for Allowance recites a partial description of the claimed subject matter and states the Examiner's disbelief that the prior art teaches the claimed subject matter. However, the Examiner's description of the claimed subject matter does not recite the exact words of each of the independent claims.

Applicants submit that the statement "a reference sensor detecting the value of one of humidity and temperature proximate to the body and to generate its own electrical characteristic relative to the value detected by the reference sensor" in the Reasons for Allowance corresponds to language in independent claim 53. However, that statement does not correspond exactly to the language in independent claim 33. Moreover, that statement does not correspond at all to the language in independent claim 43. Accordingly, Applicants assert that each of the independent claims 33 and 43 is allowable for the features that it recites and not for the reasons as set forth in the Reasons for Allowance.
